The New Year's just beginning
But our school days are done;
And though we're few in number
We've had a lot of fun.

The trials we knew as freshmen
Have faded with the years.
Our long-sought goal was finally reached —
We were the MIGHTY seniors.

Excitement for the senior trip was felt by everyone,
And off we went to the gay decked ship intent on having fun.
The first few hours were warm and bright,
but then the wind did blow.

The ship just rolled, tossed and turned so everyone went below.

The storm grew worse . . . we were so sick, but heedless of it all,
The Dark Town Strutters Poker Club played on despite the squall.

We all survived (Thank God!) and lived to see our graduation day.

It's true it meant a lot of work but not half as much as play.

10 Sportsters Graduate

The January '52 class has produced 10 boys who were outstanding in the field of sports.

In football Walt Burnard, who filled the position of guard or tackle, earned one RO letter. Bruce Dempster, a guard, who was picked for the SOC football team, earned 3 RO letters; Jack Roosa, quarterback, earned 2 letters in football; Bill Wilson, center, ended his high school football career with 3 letters.

Four boys were lost by the swimmer in his junior year, earned 2 letters in swimming. He was at his best in the 100-yard free style.

Stan Newton, another tri-captain for this year, received 3 letters; he swam the breast stroke and the individual medley. Royal Olsen who swam the 100-yard breast stroke and individual medley, received 3 letters.

Morgan Davis and Bob Rivest are this year's graduates who represent the golf team. Davis received 2 letters in golf; his lowest

Staff Runs, Writes, Rechecks, As the Acorn Goes to Press

Have you stopped to wonder what really goes on behind the doors of the Acorn Office besides the laughing, talking, and eating?

The Acorn is being produced!

Great minds are clicking and great work is being done . . . under the ever-cracking whip of Mr. Rosen.

But actually how is the Acorn produced?

Every two weeks an Acorn is planned or dummied up by the editors. Each ad (the bread and butter of the newspaper) and story is provided with a definite size and place in the Acorn. Its size is related to the reporter so he can write it to scale.

The reporter then gathers together the information needed and writes it up, using the future tense since all material is written at an early date to allow for the time needed to print and edit the copy. On deadline day the assignments are turned in to the news editor or to the feature editor, according to the classification of the story, for approval.

Check and recheck is the philosophy of any newspaper.

The editors copyread the material or copy and pass it on to the copy editor who gives it a more thorough check.

When the copy has been set in type by the Royal Oak Print Shop it is sent to the high school print shop and printed by students under the direction of Mr. Cook.

Two sets of galley proofs, long sheets of paper containing the printed material of the paper, are

These proofs provide the printer with corrections, and the dummy, the layout of the Acorn.

During the printing process the editor makes several trips to the print shop to check the type of the headlines and other important details.

All photo engravings are taken care of by the Royal Oak Tribune at the expense of the Acorn.

When the paper is delivered to the Acorn Office it is folded and distributed by the staff in home-rooms to you, the students of ROHS.

Students Come to Learn, Use Knowledge to Serve ming department. Ken Frazier, one of this year's tri-captains, was outstanding as a free-styler; he earned 3 letters. Brandt Helser, who came to ROHS from Caliscore in a meet was 75. Rivest is the only boy graduating that received letters in two sports, one in basketball and one in golf. His lowest score in a meet was 73.

sent to the staff.

One set of the galley proofs is corrected for errors and the other is cut up into its respective stories which are pasted in their places on the dummy sheet, the reporters writing headlines above each story.

Printing Completes Last Step in Cycle

A shrewd combination of an English professor, a FBI de-coder, and a master mechanic is the mark of the boys who print the Acorn.

Their job is to set up the pages and the headlines, according to the "dummy" sheet designed by the editorial staff of the paper, and then run it off on their big Miehle Vertical cylinder press. Generally about 1500 papers are printed.

Included on the printing staff are Benton Anderson, Dick Bales, Fred Blevins, Stanley Cook, Myron Cooke, Charles Fondaw, Edward Foster, Ron Giroux, Ken Hoerauf, Bill Jones, Bill MacKellar, Clyde Maxwell, Gerald McClelland, William Pavelka and Jerry Peludat.

Others are Chuck Schott, Ken Smith, Irvin Speck, Bill Hill, Don Gmelin, Earl McCauley, Ralph Newman, Clifford Parent, Edward Purcilly and Jerry Yoes.

On Jan. 24, another group of young people who have come to ROHS to learn will leave it with knowledge to serve their community, and the world.

Their experiences in high school were many and varied. Much more was learned in the classroom than just what came from the textbook or the teachers' memory. A sense of honor — of doing your own work, not cheating — was gained by every student who sincerely tried his best.

As the eight long semesters dwindled, the students learned that their respect for authority was founded on the realization that the teachers were there to help and encourage them. And it was not a complete dictatorship. Some teachers even advocated democracy.

After school the young men especially, who were skillful in athletics, joined a team to learn more about their skill and to have fun using it. But the most important gain was the quality of sportsmanship. Win or lose, they accepted the decision as gentlemen.

The clubs offered opportunities for fellowship with classmates whom they otherwise might not have seen. These meetings after hours developed, among other things, leadership ability.

So the school has done its best to make a person mature and well-adjusted to enter the role of adult in society. In some cases it has failed, but most results have been more than promising. These graduating seniors are no longer children. They are ready to take their place in the world and to make it a better one to live in. They are ready to go forth to serve.

PRINTING STAFF: Ed Purcilly, Ken Smith and Chuck Schott, members of the printing staff, run off the Acorn which will be folded by the Acorn Staff the next day.

Off to the gridiron the fans all trudged their way
 To view the annual battle fought on Thanksgiving Day.
 Both teams played with all their heart,
 And though we tried in vain,
 Next year our team will go right back and fight as hard again.
 And as this day drew to its close, our loss seemed far away,
 For all the gym was sparkling bright with decorations gay.
 The weeks and weeks of endless work
 were worthwhile in the end,
 As once again we danced and laughed,
 meeting with all our friends.

Upper right—Daneen Clapp and Dick Bloomfield certainly seem to be enjoying the Junior Party as Mr. McLean urges them on.

Lower center—A Cotter's "Monday" Night . . . Senior girls at Lit. Club Initiation Dinner held Monday, Oct. 8, 1951.

Upper center—Guess who? These are the winners of the all-school Hallowe'en party.

Lower left center—How Rae Dudak ever got in the same line with "athletes" Bill Wilson, Don Rowe, Dave Elliot, Tom Schultz and Dick Little is beyond us.

Lower right—Loud enthusiastic noise is coming from Leroy Ritter, Judy Guy, Helen Raven.

Football

Royal Oak's football team ended the 1951 season with two wins, six losses and one tie. Four members of the squad, Walt Burnard, Bruce Dempster, Jack Roosa and Bill Wilson are graduating in January.

Burnard met some stiff competition trying for the guard position, but proved himself and played most of the season.

Dempster played defensive guard and was one of Royal Oak's most aggressive linemen. He was in on a good per cent of the tackles all season, and being chosen SOC tackle and given honorable mention on the All-State team proves this point.

Wilson, defensive center, was a real asset to the Acorns. He acted as line captain during most of the season, and the team selected him as co-captain the night before the Birmingham game.

Roosa was the Acorn quarterback this season. Besides calling the plays, he shared the passing chores with "Cappy" Johnson.

ROHS Band

The ROHS band has played for all the football games, a Lions game, a U. of M. game, and also welcomed Santa Claus and the Crusade for Freedom to Royal Oak. They are under the direction of Mr. Henry Garen.

Royal Oak's drum major-ettes, who strut their stuff at football games, deserve credit for their inspiring work. Shown at the left are Wanda Wilson, head major-ette, Judy Reimer, Barbara Smith, Sharon Jones and Judy Arnold.

As Hallowe'en night came to our town, parties and festivities seemed to abound.

The sprites and all the spirits had vanished with the dawn
But in the morning what a sight beheld us on the lawn.

The lazy days of summer still lingered in our minds,
When once again school beckoned us back to the same old grind.

Our classes were so dull — we looked out the windows and yawned,

And dreamed of the joys of a summer
forever past and gone.

CASUAL

Top—This rush always occurs at 8:14! every morning . . . That alarm just never rings.

Upper left center—Camera shy students couldn't angle their way into this picture.

Upper right center—Good food . . . little room . . . The 2x4 cafe always has a full house.

Lower left center—Beauty and the Beast . . . which is which? Pete Kramer, Janet Sluyter; background: Nadine Smith and Gladys Sznaider.

Lower right center — The Girls Lit. Dinner at Cotter's.

Lower left—Oh, for warm weather once again, so we can get some sunshine.

Lower right—Eat, drink and be merry at the Senior Tea.

Upper left—A new type of "Petty" girl?

Upper right — I'd give the shirt off my father's back to be a Girls Lit. member.

Upper left center — These seniors appear to be in "Dyer" need of a brisk cup of tea.

Lower right center—Leaving so soon Mr. Rosen? Off to be some "Woman's Home Companion," no doubt.

Bottom—Friday night levi loungers are observing the all school party goings on.

Administration

Can I have a slip? ask Shirley Worden and Dick Hess, ask of Mrs. Barnes.

Money, money, money—Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Waite, Rae Dudak, Ruth Borntrager and Bev Murdock.

Give me a good schedule, please? Judy Hollebeck and Ann Kempe ask of Mrs. Ludwick, counselor.

Good luck to both of you!
To two swell kids
(specially for borrowing paper to chuckle!)
I wish you lots of luck
through your senior year - have fun!

Lorina and Emily
I have enjoyed having
you girls in Algebra
3 and Algebra 4. Best wishes to you. Always B
